The Story Thus Far:

While on an illegal hunting trip in Africa, billionaire playboy Alex Lowder encounters Dr. Saida Nri, a beautiful Nigerian doctor. Rather than risk prosecution, he kidnaps her and hatches a plan to win back control of the Lowder media empire after the death of his father. He devises ADRENALINE, a new reality TV program starring himself and Saida as the leaders of two opposing teams in a death-defying race across the Globe.

Tempted by the $4 million grand prize that could significantly benefit her health programs, Saida agrees. They recruit: Jon Ruiz- U.S. Marine, Magda Reyes- Boxer, Ben Wong – Hollywood stunt man/driver, Alison Wunderle- Triathlete, Casey Davis- Semi-pro baseball player, and Gia Tulao- Personal trainer.

Saida's blue team wins the first challenge in a race through San Francisco, but Alex's red team quickly overtakes them during the scuba diving challenge off the Gulf Coast of Mexico, leaving one of their teammates, Magda, in perilous danger. The blue team rescues her, adding a new teammate who's hell-bent on revenge.

After skydiving into the French Alps, the five members of the blue team finally catch up to the red team before they are able to begin the skiing/snowboarding challenge. The two teams start a brawl in the ski lodge pub that burns down the entire building.
